

Archer, Chetan Bhagat among most read e-book authors of 2016

TNN | Updated: Jan 20, 2017, 03.24 PM IST

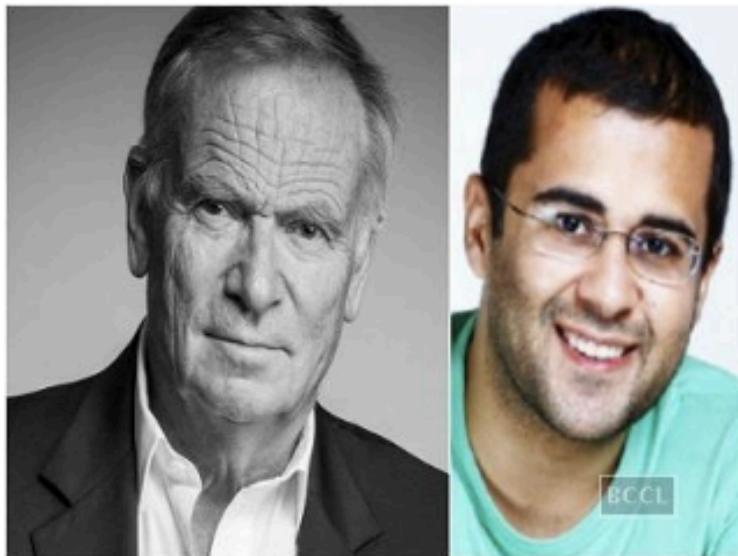

A-

A+

Dosti Ambrosia at Wadala

5 minutes from 5 gardens. Architecture by Hafeez Contractor. Ready Possession with OC. : projects.dostirealty.com

Ads by Google

Archer, Chetan Bhagat among most read e-book authors of 2016
(Pic Credit: Jeffrey Archer & Chetan Bhagat/ via Facebook)

Chetan Bhagat and Jeffrey Archer are not only the best selling authors when it comes to published fiction, but they also rank at the top in the list of writers who are popular in the digital world. According to a recent survey by Kindle e-book, English author Jeffrey Archer's book Cometh The Hour and This Was A Man are among the top five bestsellers. While the book One Indian Girl by popular Indian author Chetan Bhagat tops the chart of the 'most borrowed' and 'most wished for' categories.

These among other amazing e-book reading trends of the year 2016 based on actual consumption in the country were released by Kindle on January 19. While Mumbai bet Delhi to be the best read city of India, Bengaluru, Chennai and Hyderabad were also not left behind as the top five well-read cities respectively.

The list top bestsellers of the past year was topped by international author Jeffrey Archer for his book Cometh The Hour by. But, Indian authors didn't lag behind as Savi Sharma's debut novel Everyone Has A Story ranked second, while The Sialkot Saga by Ashwin Sanghi ranked third. Archer's This Was A Man bagged the fourth position too for this category.

Meanwhile, readers loved reading literature and fiction the most revealed the survey. This is followed by the genres--romance; health, mind and body; children and young adult; and business and economics.